

NTT Com Asia Appoints Steven So as Chief Technology Officer

Navigating the Strategic Roadmap for AI-Powered Technological Advancement in the Digital Age

HONG KONG – July 8, 2025 – As part of NTT Group, a world-leading telecommunications and ICT service provider, NTT Com Asia today announced the appointment of Steven So as its Chief Technology Officer (CTO) in Hong Kong. This strategic leadership move underscores the company's commitment to advancing digital transformation and intelligent infrastructure across the region.

In his new capacity, Mr. So will spearhead the company's technological vision, harnessing the vast potential of AI throughout its digital ecosystem. He will oversee the digital portfolio and help shape the next wave of transformative solutions, driving operational excellence and enhancing customer-centric outcomes through technological innovations.

"I am privileged to take on this new role. As the AI Enabler, our mission is to continuously expand the boundaries of digital innovation and fully realize the potential of AI. With the launch of our AI-Driven Data Centre, Private 5G wireless connectivity, and an open, comprehensive smart building platform, OCEAN Intelligence™, NTT Com Asia has laid a robust foundation for an AI journey – one that spans AI applications, smart infrastructure and operations, and positions us to accelerate the advancement of a smarter, more connected future." said Mr. Steven So, Chief Technology Officer of NTT Com Asia.

Prior to this role, Mr. So led NTT Com Asia's data center business, where he drove the transformation of digital infrastructure through smart operations and AI-driven enhancements. With decades of industry experience, his visionary approach and technical expertise uniquely position him to guide the company's AI journey and influence the broader technology landscape.

"This is a journey that accelerates with every step forward," Mr. Steven So added. "Looking ahead, we are poised to introduce even more disruptive innovations that will catalyze the transition to a hyper-intelligent, AI-powered and sustainable society."

"Steven has been instrumental in shaping NTT Com Asia's technological journey," said Mr. Daisuke Kuroda, Chief Executive Officer of NTT Com Asia. "His deep expertise and visionary leadership perfectly position him to propel our AI and digital capabilities to new heights. This appointment reflects our commitment to leading the digital frontier across the region and redefine the future of intelligent infrastructure."
